

Amine transaminases mediate the conversion of prochiral ketones to chiral amines, in the presence of a suitable amine donor. This talk will focus on strategies to overcome the challenges associated with the application of these enzymes for the synthesis of chiral amines including unfavorable reaction equilibria and limited substrate scope.